

Real Estate Industry Honors Mahoney for Protecting Small Businesses

Mahoney Presented "Legislative Achievement Award"

(January 30, 2008)

(Washington, D.C.) - Congressman Tim Mahoney (FL-16) accepted the "Legislative Achievement Award for 2007" today from the Real Estate Roundtable for his work on carried interest, natural catastrophic insurance and terrorism insurance.

"I am honored to accept this award presented by the Real Estate Roundtable," said Congressman Mahoney. "A healthy real estate industry is a cornerstone to a healthy economy. Floridians know better than anyone else as the recent real estate slump has pushed Florida to the brunt of recession."

"We have never before presented this award to a freshman member of the House. However, Congressman Mahoney's deep understanding of the critical issues that face the real estate industry and the overall economy was outstanding. From tax policy to insurance market issues, he has gone beyond "business as usual" to try to find solutions that work in the real world. We greatly appreciate his efforts and hope this award demonstrates our appreciation of his focus on job growth and community development," said Jeff DeBoer of the Real Estate Roundtable.
